When you can cancel your agreement under the Australian Consumer Law

The day after you receive your agreement and (unless you're in Western Australia) the customer disclosure statement is the Agreement Date. You can cancel your agreement within 10 business days of the Agreement Date. This is the cooling off period.

You can cancel your agreement within 3 months of the Agreement Date if the marketer:

- called on you on a Sunday or public holiday, or before 9am or after 5pm on a Saturday, or before 9am and after 6pm on any other day, unless they had an appointment for that time; or
- didn't:
  - clearly explain the purpose of the call;
  - leave immediately if you asked them to or explain that they must do so; or;
  - show you an identity card with their name and our name and business address (not a PO box).

You can cancel your agreement within 6 months of the Agreement Date if:

- before you accepted you weren't told you could cancel during the cooling off period or how to do so;
- you weren't given the agreement and associated documents (including this cancellation notice and attached form 1) when you accepted (if you accepted in person) or within 5 business days (if you accepted over the phone);
- energy or GreenPower or Green Gas were supplied during the cooling off period (except where permitted by law) or you weren't told that they couldn't be supplied during that time;
- the agreement didn't set out the full terms or the total amount you'd need to pay or how it would be calculated or include any postal or delivery charges;
- the agreement front page didn't state: "Important Notice to the Consumer. You have a right to cancel this agreement within 10 business days from and including the day after you signed or received this agreement. Details about your additional rights to cancel with agreement are set out in the information attached to this agreement.";
- if you accepted in person, you didn't sign the front page of the agreement or the date you signed wasn't stated on the front page;
- the agreement didn't prominently set out our name, ABN, business address (not a PO box), email address and fax number;
- if we signed the agreement, it didn't state that the person signing for us is acting on our behalf or set out their name, business address (not a PO box) and email address;
- the agreement wasn't printed clearly (apart from any changes which may be handwritten), or wasn't transparent; or
- if changes to the agreement weren't signed by you and us.
